NEWS BY THE MAILS.

Washington Correspondence.

Correspondence of the Richmond Examiner.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.

This day is perhaps the crisis of the France-Mexican question. The New Year's day announcements of the Emperor Napoleon will probably express his own policy on the question. His misgivings, disclosed by his outgivings to-morrow, will, perhaps settle the question of peace or war. The United States government, through Mr. Seward, has answered the question of M. Dronyn d'Lhuys, "is it peace or war?" The restoration of the Union has answered it.

The President met it by the manner in which he received the French minister M. Montholon, when he presented his credentials. There was enough in President Johnson's manner, independently of his very guarded and meaning words, to show that, in some not unforeseen contingencies, there must occur a rupture of friendly relations with France.

I have no doubt that the President is a better interpreter of American feeling and policy in regard to the Mexican question than Mr. Seward. The Generals, Grant, Logan, Heintzleman, and other prominent military men, who are so fierce for a demonstration against the French power in Mexico, are still better interpreters than the President. The press of the Northwest is also a pretty sure index of the public mind in that quarter. Congress if goaded by the Western members, would soon take such a stand against the French dominion or interference in Mexico, that Mr. Seward would have to make another apology for Congress and declare again most solemnly to the French Government that Congress is of no account in our system of government.

It is not to be doubted that the American people have resolved that Mexico shall be left free from foreign interference, or dictation to the Mexicans. Louis Napoleon has been made to understand that he cannot maintain Maximilian by his bayonets in Mexico, and that the people of Mexico will be guaranteed by this Government in their right to establish such a Government as they may please for themselves. Our people take for granted that the Mexicans are in favour of the Juarez, or Liberal party in Mexico, and against the Imperial Government established by French aid. The very name of Imperalism or Monarchy seems to be revolting to American ideas, though we have no governments except Imperial or Monarchical around us. We have for our own neighbors Queen Victoria, the Emperor of Russia, the Emperor of Mexico, Queen Isabella, and not far off is our good friend the Emperor of Brazil, to say nothing of our very aristocratic neighbors of the Island of Hayti.

Mr. Bigelow, our Minister in Paris, expressed the views of sensible people in this country when he stated that the United States would leave Mexico to her own choice as to form of government.

But he represented only a minority of our people, who generally entertain the idea that monarchy must be an imposition upon people and would never be its free choice.

Louis Napoleon may, however, be rash enough to assert and maintain his policy as to Mexico, and we know that he has declared his Mexican demonstration to be the most important step he has ever taken. If he determine, as he may, to stand or fall by it, then we may be involved in war.

Next week this matter will be pressed upon the Government by resolutions and declarations in Congress. KAPPA.

The Hon. John A. Campbell of Alabama, formerly a justice of the United States Supreme Court, and Assistant Secretary of War of the late Confederacy, was in New Orleans on the 20th.

Major General Thomas has notified the authorities of Alabama of his readiness to relieve that State of the presence of Federal troops, but the Governor thinks it advisable that they be retained for the present, and until there shall be a suitable organization of the militia to preserve order and assist in the execution of the laws.

The Jacksonville Floridian of late date says:

Several intelligent planters whom we have met inform us that they have made satisfactory arrangements with the colored laborers for work the ensuing year, and express the greatest confidence in success. Some have arranged for their hands to work the lands on shares—some have leased for a stipulated number of bales of cotton—while others hire. There is a strong feeling among planters against leasing to negroes and we understand public meetings have been held in Madison county on the subject, with a view to discourage such a course; but on the whole we think the indications are favorable for a tolerable crop of cotton the ensuing year.

"THE UNION RESTORED—EXPECTED PROCLAMATION."—Under this heading the National Intelligencer says:

"It is with great pleasure that we announce the fact that the President will thus soon be enabled to crown his great work of conciliation by a proclamation declaring that the States whose powers have been so long in abeyance have resumed their proper functions as members of the Union, and that the Union is restored!"

The Intelligencer, it will be observed, does not say that the President will issue this proclamation, but that "he will soon be enabled" to do it. Such a proclamation would hasten the crisis between the Radicals and Conservatives.

GENERAL GRANT'S REPORT.—The Mobile Register and Advertiser, edited by John Forsyth, says in its issue of December 13th:

"General Grant's report is a full and comprehensive history of the war, as conducted on the Federal side. It is a frank and able document, and of the highest interest to all participators in and observers of the great struggle. The freedom with which the distinguished General has written about persons and events promises to provoke a good deal of controversy. Of all the great leaders of the Federal side, we believe that General Grant is held in the highest respect and esteem by his late adversaries as a soldier, patriot and man."

JEWELERS' and BANKERS' SAFES made to Order, Lined with Hardened Steel.
HOUSE AND PLATE SAFES.

TO THIS CELEBRATED SAFE was awarded the GOLD MEDAL, at the World's Fair in London, in 1851.

NOTICE.—This celebrated Fire-Proof safe is no longer made and sold by SILAS C. HERRING, his license to make and sell them having expired.

The thousands of Certificates from Merchants, Bankers and Mechanics of all trades, that have been given in favor of this the only true "SALAMANDER," renders it useless for the subscribers to multiply words in its favor, as full thirty thousand of "WILDER'S PATENT SALAMANDER SAFES," have been manufactured and sold in the United States; and, in almost every large fire that has taken place during the last seventeen years, these Safes have been subjected to the severest tests, and not one of the "Genuine Salamanders" has ever been destroyed.

Safes sold at New York price, with the freight to Wilmington added. No commission charged in Wilmington. We are prepared to take orders for these celebrated Safes. Samples can be seen at our office in a few days.

COPARTNERSHIP.

NEWBERN, N. C., November 1st, 1865.

WE HAVE THIS DAY FORMED A COPARTnership under the name and style of Whitford, Dill & Co.,
for the transaction of a Shipping and General Commission Business, in this Town, West side Craven Street, on old County Wharf.

To the sale of Cotton, Naval Stores, Tobacco, Lumber, Staves, Shingles, Corn, and all kinds of Produce and Merchandise, and also to the sale and purchase of Real Estate and State and other Stocks, we will give our personal attention.

We are Agents for Murry's North Carolina Semi Weekly Line of Steamships, between Newbern and New York, and for Sailing Vessels for Baltimore, Philadelphia, and other ports in the United States, and for different ports in the West Indies Thus it will be seen that we are furnished by our own vessels with the amplest facilities for the speedy transportation of Freight and Passengers. But in addition to these, there is a weekly line of Ocean Steamships on the same route, and a tri-weekly line of Steamers by inland route through Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal to Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York; hence Merchants and Shippers entrusting the transportation of their freight to us, can rely with confidence on its speedy transit.

☞ We will make liberal advances on consignments.

THE DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL,
SEATON GALES, } Editors.

Thursday, January 4, 1866.

OUR TERMS.

THE SENTINEL is issued every morning (Sunday excepted) at the following rates:

Or Daily, per year,	$10 00
six months,	5 00
one month	1 00
two months	2 00
Semi-Weekly per year,	5 00
Weekly per year,	3 00

Our terms are invariably in advance. The Weekly and Semi-weekly will be issued about the first of January. Money may be sent us by the Rail Road conductors or the Express Companies.

THE PEOPLE must be trusted with their Government, and if trusted, my opinion is that they will act in good faith, and restore their former constitutional relations with all the States composing the Union.—Andrew Johnson's Letter to Gov. Sharkey, of Mississippi.

The Daily Sentinel.

All who are now receiving the Daily Sentinel, if they wish it continued or wish it changed to the Semi-Weekly or Weekly, will please let us know at once. The cash can be sent us as soon as it can be done by private hands or by the Express Companies, until the mails become reliable.

Those who are now in debt to us will please remit as soon as convenient.

The Semi-Weeky Sentinel.

As soon as a sufficient number of names can be obtained on the Semi-Weekly list, it will be issued. Perhaps it will not be issued before the 1st of February. In the meantime those who order the Semi-Weekly will be furnished with the Daily until it is issued.

The Weekly Sentinel.

The first number of this paper will be issued on the 10th inst. As the edition will not be much beyond the list of names, those who wish to begin with the first number should order it at once.

What the South Needs.

We are among those who greatly desire an early restoration of the Southern States to the Union, and the full restoration of the civil powers of the States lately embroiled in revolution. But important as that consummation is, there is a matter which more dearly and intensely interests the people of the South.

Our people are impoverished—badly used up in material means. The loss of the slave labor of the South, has crippled every enterprise and ruined hopelessly thousands. The means of recuperation are not in the South, even if we were not burdened with a heavy personal, National and State debt.

We are not entering a plea for the restoration of slavery. If we had the power we would not outrage the feelings of the nation by such a proposition. But we are stating what is the simple truth.

The question is how are we to pay our debts? How are our people to discharge their obligation to their creditors, and to both governments, when we are destitute of money or that which will bring money? The past crops of the South are nearly exhausted. What remains is mostly in the hands of the government or the speculators. We might worry along if the people generally could calculate with certainly upon the next crop. But how stands the case? In North Carolina the prospect is, that only about one-third of the tenable land of the State will be in cultivation. Never before were so many farms offered for sale or rent. Why is this? Simply because many who have lands, are both without money or the means of obtaining it, with which to make a crop. If all the freedmen in the State were willing and ready to go to work, there are thousands of planters who cannot employ them, for the want of money to purchase the necessary supplies.—The consequence is, that many farmers are looking to other pursuits for a living.

Is there any remedy for this state of things? It may be said, the people must go to work.—Very well, they are willing and ready. But a workman cannot go to work without tools, nor a farmer without implements. Many have a little property and they are honest and will pay if they can, but no one has credit enough to borrow money, for the reason there is no money to lend.

Nothing so far as we can see is operating so injuriously upon the South, as the present Banking system of the government. The National Banks are so hampered they cannot lend money. The accommodation which Banks are intended to afford the public, they cannot render. If our former Banking system could be restored it would give some hope to the country. We have the energy and the machinery, but lack the oil to put it in motion. If our people could borrow, they could go to work with some prospect of success, but without this facility what can be done.

The Farmer.

We have received the first number of the Farmer, devoted to agriculture, horticulture, mechanic arts and household economy, by Messrs. Elliott and Shields of Richmond, Va.—It is a monthly, very handsomely gotten up, embellished with an engraving of Gen. Richardson, a noted farmer, and filled with interesting matter. It contains 48 pages of reading matter, besides a large advertising register. The price is only $3. The proprietors we would suggest, in not putting the price of the publication on the cover, commit a blunder. If the pages are trimmed it would help. We hope the publication will meet with good success.

The reported loss of the steamer Constitution off our coast last week is contradicted. She has since arrived in New York.

The Next Presidency.

We observe with regret that some of our Southern cotemporaries have thus early begun to suggest names for the next Presidency. It is a question which deeply interests the South, yet the modesty of any suggestion coming from the South upon that subject, at least under existing circumstances, may well be called in question.

Gen. Grant occupies a very high position as a humane and chivalrous soldier, and he has done much to give him a very commanding position before the country for the office of President, yet it strikes us, as savoring of bad taste and ingratitude for Southerners to bring his name forward for that position, in opposition to Andrew Johnson.

The history of the last six months at least, has placed the name of Andrew Johnson far in advance of any other competitor for that office, with all who are really friends of the Union and of the South, whether they are Northerners or Southerners. No other man in the nation at this period, enjoys so largely as he does the confidence and esteem of the liberal minded people of the Republic. He is our choice above all others for that high office, and nothing but an abandonment of the principles he has so repeatedly avowed of late, could lead us to entertain a proposition in favor of any other person.

Besides, we are no advocate for placing in high civil position the military men of the country. The experience of the nation does not favor the election of men who have shown themselves fully equal to the task of directing the movements of a large army, to high civil position; and however much we may estimate the military talents of any of the great Generals of the nation, we are not impressed strongly with their adaptation to the task of ruling a great, free people.

The Sentinel wants to know why it is that Mr. Pool is more acceptable than others, and asks if he has not been as thorough a "rebel" as others. We answer this as follows, not for Mr. Pool but for ourselves:

1st. Mr. Pool is more acceptable than others, because, under all circumstances he doubted the success of the rebellion, and kept constantly burning in his heart the good old Union fires.

2d. Mr. Pool resisted at all times, like a man and an American citizen, the despotic administration of Mr. Davis, and labored to preserve liberty to our people, and to obtain peace by a cessation of hostilities, by negotiations, and if deemed best, by a reconstruction of the Union.

3d. Mr. Pool earnestly advised a Convention of our people more than twelve months ago, for the purpose of making terms with the federal government. But his advice was disregarded, and the result is, slavery, has been abolished, and North Carolina has been subjugated and ruined.—Standard.

1. We have a high regard; personally and politically, for the Hon. John Pool, if for nothing else, for the sake of auld lang syne. We never designedly say any thing to wound the feelings of any gentleman, much less those of an old friend. But we are at a loss to understand how Mr. Pool can be a more acceptable representative in Congress, because of his political views for the last five years, than Gov. Graham, or Mr. Stubbs, or Mr. Clark, or Mr. Fuller, or Mr. Turner, or Col. Brown or Col. Walkup, or Mr. Jones. He certainly is no better Union man than any of them—not such an one we presume, as Mr. Jones is, who can take the test oath.

2. If we are not mistaken, Mr. Pool was one of the electors on the electoral ticket for Jefferson Davis, and presided at the meeting of the electors. He did not raise a company for the war, but we have heard it asserted that he was anxious at one time to be made a Brigadier General in the Confederate Army. He would not have objected, it is thought, to the appointment of Confederate Senator when Gov. Vance appointed Judge Reade, nor to the election when Gov. Graham was chosen. None of his public acts show that he was hostile to the Confederacy while in the Legislature, before the war closed. His peace resolutions certainly could not be construed as very strongly in favor of reconstruction or anti-Confederate. To have been simply opposed to the war or to the "depotism" of Mr. Davis, prove nothing. Some of the strongest original secessionists were opposed to the war—they were for peaceable secession, and many of them became bitter against Mr. Davis.

Governor's Council.

The Council convened on yesterday in the Executive Office, Messrs. W. A. Wright, Wm. Eaton, jr., C. J. Cowles and J. A. Lemley, being present. Mr. Wright was chosen President of the Council.

The Council advised the convening of the Legislature on the 18th of the present month, and the Governor issues his proclamation accordingly; which appears in to-day's issue.

Collection of Taxes.

Some of the Newbern merchants having objected to the payment of the tax for the State revenue, recently imposed by the State Convention, sent on a delegation to Washington to urge the President to order that it should not be collected. Some of the papers having intimated that the government had arrested the collection of the tax, Gov. Worth addressed the following telegram to President Johnson, whose reply puts the matter at rest:

GOV. WORTH TO THE PRESIDENT.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
RALEIGH, N. C. Jan. 2d, 1866

To His Excellency Andrew Johnson,
President United States:

SIR:—It is represented through the newspapers that you have ordered the Sheriffs of this State to abstain from executing some of the Ordinances of our Convention, for raising Revenue.

Gov. Holden informs me he has received no instructions upon the subject.

I would be glad to have a copy of any orders you may have made on the subject.

JONATHAN WORTH,
Governor of N. C.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S REPLY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2, 1866.

To Gov. Jonathan Worth:

Your telegram of the 2nd, received. No orders in reference to the Sheriffs of North Carolina have been issued by me.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

A PROCLAMATION

By His Excellency, Jonathan Worth, Governor of North Carolina.

WHEREAS, I, JONATHAN WORTH, Governor of North Carolina, with the concurrence and advice of the Council of State, do deem it absolutely necessary that the General Assembly of this State be convened before the time appointed for its meeting:

Now, therefore, I do hereby issue this my proclamation, notifying and requesting the members of the General Assembly of North Carolina to meet in special session, at the Capitol, in the city of Raleigh, on Thursday the 18th day of this month.

Given under my hand, and attested by the (L. S.) great seal of the State, at office, in Raleigh, this the 3rd day of January A. D. 1866, and in the year of our independence the ninetieth.

By the Governor:

JONATHAN WORTH.

Confederate Currency.

The following report of the Committee to prepare a scale of the value of Confederate currency at different times, by the last Legislature, was submitted, but we believe was not acted upon. The correctness of the scale we believe has been endorsed by the Virginia papers and it may be considered a safe guide in the estimates made of Confederate currency:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE RELATIVE TO THE DEPRECIATION OF CONFEDERATE CURRENCY.

The joint select committee, to whom was referred a resolution on the scale of depreciation of Confederate currency, state that they have had the same under careful consideration and after mature deliberation, ask leave to submit the following report:

The Confederate Prices of Money from May 1st, 1861, to May 1st, 1865.

C. L. HARRIS,
For the Committee.

Another Caucus on the Re-Assembling of Congress.

A Washington correspondent of a Radical newspaper says:

"I have reason to know that when Congress re-assembles, an effort will be made by the Union men, who are determined to obtain all proper guarantees before the Southern States are admitted, to define the position of the party in caucus on the whole subject of reconstruction."

The instinct of self-preservation will no doubt prompt the Republican party to make vigorous efforts to reconcile differences among its several factions, and to maintain its present organization. Disruption will not be effected without a trial of all expedients to avert it. We may expect a grand caucus on the re-assembling of Congress, and before any important action shall be taken in either House. The Christmas holidays, which separated the members of Congress and prevented an interchange of opinions among them, gave them the opportunity, in a majority of instances, of returning to their homes and of conferring with their constituencies. Many will return to Washington under new ideas, influences and inspirations. A comparison of views will be made in caucus, and if a division is to occur between the two wings, it will be initiated in caucus. The quarrel and the split will be begun there—but the grand explosion—the public manifestation—will be in the two Houses.

The efforts made by the Radical leaders, before the adjournment, to induce the President to pause in his restoration policy, experienced a signal failure. He went on steadily with the good work, withdrew Provisional Governors, recognized elected Governors, and announced to the country through his Secretary of State, the restoration of those Southern States that have adopted the Constitutional amendment—and the rumor now comes to us that at the meeting of Congress he will send in a special message in regard to the admission of the Southern members. When Congress re-assembles it will have to face these recent events. The knot was tied by the President during the recess. Will they let it stand, or proceed to untie it? The time for action is fast approaching, and the public will not long be kept in suspense.—Rich. Whig.

Death of General Trapier.

The Charleston papers announce the sudden death of Brigadier General W. H. Trapier, of the late Confederate Army. General Trapier was a graduate of South Carolina College, and afterwards entered West Point. He was in the same class with General Beauregard, and graduated with high honor. After leaving West Point he served in the United States army fourteen years, and was promoted to the rank of Captain of Engineers. On his resignation he returned home to take charge of his estate near Georgetown, and became a very successful planter. At the breaking out of the war he received the State appointment of Chief of Ordnance, and afterwards took charge of the defences of Charleston. After the bombardment of Fort Sumter he accepted the office of Major of Engineers in the Confederate service. He was subsequently promoted to the rank of a Brigadier General in the Confederate service, and ordered to Florida, afterwards to General Johnson's army in Mississippi, and finally, was placed in command of Georgetown, S. C., which post he retained till the close of the war.

Richmond Examiner.

The Columbus, Georgia, Enquirer, says "we are fully persuaded that one of the greatest dangers before the South is the probability of the devotion of too much attention to the cultivation of cotton next year." This is suggested in consequence of the uncertainty of labor.

Nearly one thousand acres of abandoned lands in Virginia are being cultivated by the freedmen, under the auspices of the Freedmen's Bureau.

IMPORTANT SALE.

ON WEDNESDAY, THE 24TH OF JANUARY, 1866, I shall offer for sale, my plantation in Bertie County, lying on the Roanoke River, three miles from Hill's Ferry on said river, and six from the village of Woodville in Bertie County, containing 1000 acres, more or less; 500 acres cleared and well adapted to the growth of cotton, corn, wheat, &c.

There is a very fine opportunity to make a large cotton crop on the plantation the next year, as there is compost enough ready made, to manure nearly 100 acres. The plantation made in 1841, 43,000 pounds of lint cotton, and 4,000 bushels of corn; and, with proper management, will do great deal better for the next year, as the most of the cotton land has had rest for the past two years. A very great advantage which this farm has, is its convenience to transportation, being only one mile to a good landing on the river, where there is a regular line of steamers to Norfolk weekly. In addition to the above, this is the only river farm in this portion of the county that has fire wood enough, conveniently for use; there is an abundance here, and timber of almost every kind, cypress, oak, hickory, ashe gum, &c. Lumber dealers would do well to examine the land before the day of sale.

There are about 400 or 500 acres on this tract uncleared, which affords a fine range for hogs, and a free access to numberless acres of uncultivated lands renders it very profitable for the raising of cattle, colts, &c.

The improvements consist of a gin house and cotton s row, overseer's house, cabins enough for 25 or 30 laborers, corn barns, &c. At the same time and place, I shall sell 200 or 300 barrells of corn, fodder, mules, horses, hogs, farming utensils, &c.

Terms for the land: one third cash, the balance in two equal instalments, payable respectively in 12 and 18 months, and title withheld until payments made For the perishable property, cash.

For any further particulars, address the subscriber at Enfield, Halifax county, N. C.

Desirable Farm for Sale.

THE PLANTATION SITUATED ABOUT TWO and a half miles from the village of Magnolia on the Wilmington and Weldon R. R., between that places and Kenansville, and known as "Barbacue," is offered for sale. The tract contains 360 acres, 100 of which are cleared and have been under cultivation, producing excellent Corn, Wheat, potatoes, &c. A portion of the land is also well adapted to the culture of cotton. An inexhaustible bed of Marl, a large spring of as good water as can be found in the State, and a never failing stream, running through the center of the cleared land, are among the attractions of the place.

The timbered portion of the land being nearest the Rail Road, and the entire place being easy of access to a first rate market, make it a highly desirable location for growing produce, raising stock and selling timber. Any one having the cash, can procure a bargain by applying immediately to

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

RUNAWAY.—We learn while Capt. Garoutte was driving a pair of horses on the street on yesterday, they took fright and ran and on his attemping to jump out, he was somewhat injured.

The National Express Company have removed their office a few doors below their recent place of business, to the store formerly occupied by Mr. Henry Porter, as a shoe store. We are glad to learn the Company is doing a good business.

The Southern Express Company remains at their old stand and are doing well. There is business enough for both Companies, and the public desire a healthy and fair competition. Live and let live is what the people want.

Dr. Miller will offer old N. C. 6's at 12 months credit on the 8th inst.

The sale of Messrs. Shay, Williamson & Co., advertised in this paper will take place on the 25th inst.

Mr. Towles offers a variety of goods at auction to-day.

IMPORTING HOUSE.—Messrs. O. G. Parsley & Co., of Wilmington, are importing direct from the West Indies and South America, Sugar, molasses, salt, coffee &c. Our merchants in this State can therefore supply themselves from first hands. Cargoes of molasses and coffee are now expected. See their advertisement.

COE'S SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME.—This is said to be a splendid fertilizer, nearly equal to Peruvian Guano. It will be seen that Messrs. O. G. Parsley & Co., of Wilmington, are the agents in this State for the sale of the article.

The Select Boarding School of the Misses Nash and Miss Kollock of Hillsboro opens on the 2d February. This school has a high reputation.

Messrs. Cronly & Morriss, those popular auctioneers at Wilmington, it will be seen, offer a large and splendid assortment of British Goods direct to O. G. Parsley & Co. Merchants of the State will do well to be on hand.

CHARLOTTE FEMALE SCHOOL.—This popular school under the control of the Messrs. Burwell at Charlotte opens on the 15th of the present month.

A Partner wanted by an excellent practical manager of a newspaper in a good locality. The prospect is favorable for a good business. The editor of the Sentinel is authorized to give any information wanted in reference to the matter.

Mexican Affairs.

Washington dispatches to the Philadelphia Ledger say of the present aspect of Mexican affairs:

The important statement I have heretofore given you, with reference to the exact meaning of the reiterated rumors concerning the withdrawal of the Federal troops from Mexico, will be likely to receive official confirmation in a few days, perhaps hours. When these rumors first appeared (they came originally from France) I advised you distinctly that there was a condition attending the withdrawal, and that condition was an assurance, from this Government to Napoleon, that his Empire and Emperor in Mexico should not be disturbed. I repeated this statement to you last Sunday, and report on the avenue, this P. M., says the pledge has been given by our Government that no interference will be allowed.

The reason of the Administration guaranteeing this non-interference is no doubt the result of a belief that the Liberals in Mexico will be able to make short work of Max once the French bayonets are withdrawn, but we should not be too sure of this. Max will still have a goodly number of Austrian and Belgian troops to fall back upon, and, besides these, he has a contingent of 2,000 more to draw upon yearly for several years to come. With these he may (the United States pursuing a hand off policy) be able to establish his sway, and if he does, there will be no other recourse but to recognize him. The Government is committed in its diplomatic correspondence to this recognition when it is shown "the Mexican people have accepted the new order of things," and Louis Napoleon counts confidently on the recognition taking place.

It remains to be seen, therefore, whether the United States and the Liberal cause in Mexico, or Louis Napoleon, prove the gainer by the withdrawal of the French troops from the "Empire." To the shrewd ones here it looks as if Louis Napoleon's desire to be "let alone" by the United States in Mexico was based on his certain belief that then the Empire would soon become, what the Mexican Times has already declared it to be "a fixed fact."

In this connection I will add that there is not a shadow of truth in the announcement just to hand in the English mail that the Empress Charlotte was then en route for Paris, and that the Emperor (Maximilian) was about to pack up and join her in a few weeks. The whole story is a senseless canard.

NEW AND IMPORTANT ENTERPRISE.—Mr. J. Brandt, jr., of the Powhatan Steamboat Company, Baltimore, will, we understaud, dispatch the first-class steamer Ellen Knight to Newbern, on the 10th of January, and will come direct, avoid transhipment of goods. Another steamer will be put on the route, shortly, to run in connection with this, and will make weekly trips, or oftener as business may demand.—Newbern Times.

Additional claims against England for damages growing out of the depredations of the Confederate cruisers are still being received at the State Department, but the chances are that they will repose there for some time. This, however, will not, it is believed, invalidate them, as the Government is said to entertain little doubt but what they will all, eventually, be paid. Fresh responses, from the British Foreign Office, in reference to this question, are looked for in the course of a few weeks.

A terrible accident on the Northern New York Central railroad resulted in the death of an engineer and a fireman. They were buried under the engine and five or six freight cars, and the engineer had his head cut completely off.

From the New York News.

Mosby and his Men.

THE LAST MEETING OF MOSBY'S BATTALION.

About a week after the surrender of General Lee's army, Colonel Mosby received a dispatch via flag of truce, from General Hancock, who was then commanding in the Valley, with his headquarters at Winchester, requesting a surrender of his command. Colonel Mosby replied by saying that he would meet him at Millwood, a little town half way between Winchester and his Confederacy, the counties of Loudon and Fauquier, with a view to understand the terms, etc.

Another message from Hancock was received, stating that General Chapman, of his army, would meet Colonel Mosby at the appointed place. Accordingly, Mosby and about twenty of his officers and privates swam the Shenandoah river, galloped up the turnpike to Millwood, and was received by General Chapman and staff with every mark of courtesy. Another general and staff, a heavy body guard, besides many other soldiers, attracted, no doubt, by courtesy, also met Mosby and his party.

After some preliminaries, Mosby informed the General that he would not surrender his command so long as General Joe Johnston held the field; but, in the meantime, he would remain on the defensive only, and await the disclosures of the future.

This was accepted by the federal officer, and the conference being at an end, Mosby repaired with his party to the house of a friend to partake of their dinners.

They had proceeded but a few hundred yards in the direction of the house where they intended to dine, when, to their surprise, a full brigade of cavalry lay half concealed behind a hill.

Without apparently noticing them, the party rode quietly up to their friend's house, and dined within full sight of the brigade.

What Gen. Chapman meant by this concealed force, and a flag of truce floating at his door, the writer has never yet learned, but he cannot help thinking the General had weak nerves.

Mosby, after partaking of a sumptuous dinner, rode down with several of his men to inspect the General's modest body guard, but before Mosby could reach them they countermarched in the direction of their camp, as if ashamed of their position at a flag of truce meeting.

Nightfall found Mosby again in his Confederacy, and he gave orders to his command to remain quietly at their rendezvous until further orders. Soon news came of Johnston's probable surrender; and at the same time, orders from Winchester for Mosby to surrender immediately, or every house in the two counties above mentioned would be committed to the flames.

Mosby sent word back that he would not surrender his command, but he would disband it.

Notice was then sent to his men to meet him in Salem on the 21st day for that purpose.—There had been many meetings of the battalion at that place, but this last, for the purpose of disbanding the organization, was more reluctantly carried into effect than any previous, no matter how numerous the enemy or inclement the weather.

Twelve o'clock, midday of the 21st, found most of the battalion assembled in the old dilapidated village. Various groups gathered in the rough, stony street, and were composed of all classes, from the man whose heart was stone, to the one whose mind teemed with a tender concern for human happiness; all classes, all ages, all ranks. Mosby walked quietly up and down the street, his eyes bent upon the ground, scarcely uttering a word to any one. The battalion, the creation of his own genius, the best body of men and the finest equipped in either service, was to be disbanded forever, and the cause in which he used them so heroically lost; well might the great partizan chief feel the solemnity of the hour in his sorrow-stricken bosom, and ponder long in this hopeless situation. At length the command was ordered to mount and fall in. Seven full companies obeyed the order, and each commander read the following order:

FAUQUIER COUNTY, April 21, 1865.

SOLDIERS: I have summoned you together for the last time. The vision we have cherished of a free and independent country has vanished, and that country is now the spoil of a conqueror.

I disband your organization in preference to surrendering to our enemies. I am now no longer your commander.

After an association of more than two eventful years, I part from you with a just pride in the fame of your achievements, and grateful recollections of your generous kindness to myself. And now at this moment of bidding you a final adieu accept the assurance of my unchanging confidence and regard. Farewell,

JOHN S. MOSBY.

While this article was being read, Mosby gazed intently on the line of heroes which had so often rallied to his call, and then rode slowly down the line. 'Break ranks! march! was given, and the greatest partizan the world ever saw was without a command.

The men crowded around their sorrow-stricken chief, to bid a final adieu, and with tearful eyes and quivering lips, extended his hand to each. The officers now approached him and he fell on his horse's neck and wept aloud. Finally the crowd dispersed to their homes, the pistol, their only weapon, laid aside, and the members of the Forty-third Virginia Battalion, P. R., became citizens of the United States of America.

Mosby is now practicing law in the beautiful county seat town of Warrenton, Va., and his round unpainted table in his office holds the most valuable part of his property, namely, his law books.

A short time since he was riding on the cars between Warrenton and Richmond, when he received an invitation from Gen. Kilpatrick to visit him on the next car. "Tell the General," says he, "if the war had ended differently, and we should have been the victorious, instead of the vanquished, I should have taken pleasure in calling upon him, but as it is, courtesy requires that the General shall visit me. The General did so, and they hold a long conversation together.

GOV. WORTH'S ADDRESS.—Some who did not know Gov. Worth voted for him, at the late election, rather distrustfully; but the manly character of the sentiments contained in the address; the confidence which he reposes in the loyalty of the people, and in their lawabiding disposition, will endear him to all classes of our citizens, and fix his popularity upon a firm foundation.

The Governor may be well assured that the people of North Carolina, in the future as in the past, "will maintain the enviable reputation as to the observance of law and order, and prove how groundless is the calumny, that there are still among us persons who are disloyal to the Government of the United States."—Goldsboro' News.

FAYETTEVILLE N. C. MILITARY ACADEMY.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS INSTITUTION have been resumed without the military feature, and an additional number of pupils will be received for the balance of the session, which will terminate 26 weeks from the 1st of January, 1866. The discipline and course of instruction will be the same as in similar schools, with the exception of a thorough course in the Ancient Languages, embracing Latin and Greek composition. In surveying and engineering the instruction will be both theoretical and practical. Arrangements will be made at an early day to secure a complete set of Chemical and Philosophical apparatus. No pains or expense will be spared to make this one of the best Schools in the Country. The buildings are located on Haymount which overlooks the town of Fayetteville, and which is remarkable for the healthiness of the location, the beauty of the scenery, and the intelligence, refinement and high moral character of the people. There is almost daily connection between Wilmington and Fayetteville by steamboat, and this is suggested as the best route to the latter place from almost any quarter. Students will be received at any time, and will be charged from the date of entrance, though it will be best to enter about the 1st of January, 1866.

Terms for 26 weeks from 1st of January, 1866, payable in advance:

Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime,

OR

BONE MANURE.

WARRANTED GENUINE.

BEING MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL AND in the most approved manner, it is recommended to the public as superior to any other in the market. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and those engaged in its manufacture will continue their best endeavors to advance the high reputation which it has acquired.

We guarantee the Phosphate to be well manufaced, and recommend it in preference to any other artificial manure in the market. We consider it nearly equal to the best Peruvian Guano, although furnished at half the price.

Messrs. B. H. Allen & Co., the well known manufacturers of agricultural implements, say of it:

"We take pleasure in stating that we have sold E. F. Coe's Super Phosphate of Lime for four years—It has given unive sal satisfaction to our customers. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.

"We would state that, after careful examination, we believe this Phosphate has been improved each year since its introduction in this market, and that it will continue to maintain its present high standing.

"Very respectfully,

"R. H. ALLEN & CO.,

PALMER'S PATENT. 10.000 IN USE. 1865

1609 CHESTNUT ST. PHILADELPHIA.

ASTOR PLACE. NEW YORK. | 19 GREEN ST. BOSTON.

ADDRESS THE INVENTOR,

B. FRANK. PALMER, LL.D. PRES'T. A. A. LIMB. Co.

These inventions stand approved as the "best" by the most eminent Scientific and Surgical Societies of the world, the inventor having been honored with the award of FIFTY GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS (or "First Prizes") including the Great Medals of the World's Exhibition in London and New York; also the most Honorary Report of the great Society of Surgeons of Paris, giving his Patents place above the ENGLISH AND FRENCH.

Dr. Palmer gives personal attention to the business of his profession, aided by men of the best qualifications and greatest experience. He is specially commissioned by the Government, and has the patronage of the prominent Officers of the Army and Navy. Six Major-Generals and more than a thousand less distinguished officers and soldiers have worn the PALMER LIMBS on active duty, while still greater numbers of eminent civilians are, by their aid, filling important positions, and effectually conceal their misfortune.

Advice and Pamphlets Gratis.

To avoid the imposition of Piratical Copyists, apply only to DR. PALMER, as above directed, or to his Agent,

Pioneer Line of Steamers

FOR

Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, via Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

THE COMMODIOUS STEAMERS PIONEER and Commodore Adams, will leave Newberne for Norfolk on TUESDAY of each week at 8 o'clock A M, connecting with the different lines of steamers for the above-named points. On and after the first day of December next they will leave on Tuesday and Friday of each week, making semi-weekly trips. Shippers of Goods will receive every facility and accommodation for the transportation of the same, as arrangements have been made with the different companies to forward goods to this line at low rates and without delay. Each of these steamers are capable of carrying through the canal without difficulty, as they were built expressly for the trade. They are fitted up with STATE ROOMS and BERTHS capable of accommodating thirty-five passengers. Every attention will be paid to the comfort of passengers, who will not be subject to the inconvenience of transfer to other vessels, but will be taken through direct without change.

250 TONS OF FREIGHT,

The tables of the steamers are liberally supplied with the best the market affords. Families travelling will find it to their interest to take this line, as they will thereby escape the danger and discomfort of a sea route, and the fatigue of railroad travel.

On the 15th of December next, if the business of the line warrants it, the steamer Williams will be put on the route, and tri-weekly trips will be made.

For freight or passage apply to Whitford, Dill & Co., Newbern, N C.

DAILY SENTINEL.

WE. E. PELL, Proprietor.

THERE COMES A TIME.

There comes a time when we grow old
And, like a sunset down the sea,
Slopes gradual, and the night wind cold
Comes whispering sad and chillingly:
And locks are gray
At winter's day,
And eyes of saddest blue beheld
The leaves all dreary drift away,
And lips of faded coral say,
There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when joyous hearts
Which leap as leap the laughing main,
Are dead to all save memory,
As prisoner in his dungeon chain,
And dawn of day
Have passed away,
The moon hath into darkness rolled,
And by the embers wan and gray,
I hear a voice in whisper say,
There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when manhood's prime
Is shrouded in the midst of years,
And beauty, fading like a dream,
Hath passed away in silent fears;
And then how dark!
But O! the spark
That kindles youth to hues of gold
Still burns with clear and steady ray,
And fond affections lingering say,
There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when laughing spring
And golden summer cease to be;
And we put on the autumn robe
To tread the last declivity.
But now the slope,
With rosy hope,
Beyond the sunset we behold
Another dawn with fairer light,
While watchers whisper through the night,
There comes a time when we grow old.

The Bridal Wine Cup.

A TRUE SCENE.

"Pledge with wine—pledge with wine," cried the young and thoughtless Harvey Wood; "pledge with wine," ran through the brilliant crowd.

The beautiful bride grew pale—the decisive hour had come. She dressed her white hands together, and the leaves of her bridal wreath trembled on her pure brow; her breath came quicker, and her heart beat wilder.

"Yes, Marion, lay aside your scruples for once," said the Judge, in a low tone, going towards his daughter, "the company expect it.—Do not so seriously infringe upon the rules of etiquette; in your own house act as you please; but in mine, for this once, please me."

Every eye was turned toward the bridal pair. Marion's principles were well known.—Harvey had been a convivialist, but of late his friends noticed the change in his manners, the difference in his habits—and to-night they watched him to see, as they sneeringly said, if he was tied down to a woman's opinion so soon.

Pouring a brimming beaker, they held it with tempting smiles toward Marion. She was very pale, though more composed, and her hand shook not, as smiling back, she gratefully accepted the crystal bumper and raised it to her lips. But scarcely had she done so, when every hand was arrested by her piercing exclamation of "Oh! how terrible!"

"What is it?" cried one and all, thronging together, for she had slowly carried the glass at arm's length and was fixedly regarding it as though it was some hideous object.

"Wait," she answered, while an inspired light shone from her dark eyes, "wait, and I will tell you. I see," she added slowly pointing one jeweled finger at the sparkling ruby liquid, "a sight that beggars all description; and yet listen; I will paint it for you if I can. It is a lonely spot; tall mountains crowned with verdure, rise in awful sublimity around; a river runs through, and bright flowers grow to the water's edge. There is a thick warm mist that the sun seeks vainly to pierce; trees, lofty and beautiful, wave to the airy motion of the birds; but there a group of Indians gather; they flit to and fro with something like sorrow upon their dark brow; and in their midst lies a manly form, but his cheek, how deathly! his eyes wild with the fire of fever. One friend stands beside him, nay, I should say kneels; for he is pillowing that poor head upon his breast.

"Genius in ruins. Oh! the high, holy looking brow! Why should death mark it, and he so young? Look how he throws the damp curls, see him clasp his hands! hear his thrilling shrieks for life! mark how he clutches at the form of his companion, imploring to be saved. Oh! see him call piteously his father's name! see him twine his fingers together as he shrieks for his sister—his only sister—the twin of his soul—weeping for him in his distant native land.

"See!" she exclaimed, while the bridal party shrank back, the untasted wine trembling in their faltering grasp, and the Judge fell overpowered, upon his seat, "see! his arms are lifted to heaven; he prays, how wildly, for mercy! not fever rushes through his veins. The friend beside him is weeping; awe-stricken, the dark men move silently away, and leave the living and dying together."

There was a hush in that princely parlor, broken only by what seemed a smothered sob from some manly bosom. The bride stood yet upright, with quivering lips, and tears stealing to the outward edge of her lashes. Her beautiful arm had lost its tension; and the glass, with its little troubled red waves, came slowly towards the range of her vision. She spoke again; every lip was mute. Her voice was low fains, yet awfully distinct; she still fixed her sorrowful glance upon the wine cup.

"It is evening now; the great white moon is coming up, and her beams lay gently on his forehead. He moves not; his eyes are set in their sockets; dim are their piercing glances; in vain his friend whispers the name of father and sister—death is there. Death and no soft hand; no gentle voice in bless and soothe him.

His head sinks back! one convulsive shudder! he is dead!"

A groan ran through the assembly, so vivid was her description, so unearthly her look, so inspired her manner, that what she described seemed actually to have taken place then and there. They noticed also, that the bridegroom hid his face in his hands, and was weeping.

"Dead!" she repeated again, her lips quivering faster and faster, and her voice more and more broken, "and there they scoop him a grave, and there, without a shroud, they lay him down in that damp mocking earth. The only son of a proud father, the only idolized brother of a fond sister. And he sleeps to-day in that distant country, with no stone to mark the spot. There he lies—my father's son—my own twin brother! a victim to this deadly poison. "Father," she exclaimed, turning suddenly, while the tears rained down her beautiful cheeks, "father shall I drink it now?"

The form of the old Judge was convulsed with agony. He raised his head, but in a smothered voice he faltered—"No, no my child, in God's name, no."

She lifted the glittering goblet, and letting it suddenly fall to the floor, it was dashed into a thousand pieces. Many a tearful eye watched her movement, and instantaneously every wineglass was transferred to the marble table on which it had been prepared. Then, as she looked at the fragments of crystal she turned to the company saying:—"Let no friend hereafter who loves me, tempt me to peril my soul for wine. Not firmer the everlasting hills than my resolve. God helping me, never to touch or taste that terrible poison. And he to whom I have given my hand; who watched over my brother's dying form in that last solemn hour, and buried the dear wanderer there by the river, in that land of gold, will, I trust, sustain me in that resolve. Will you not, my husband?"

His glittering eyes, his sad, sweet smile was her answer.

The Judge left the room, and when an hour after he returned, and with a more subdued manner took part in the entertainment of the bridal guests, no one could fail to read that he, too, had determined to dash the enemy at once and forever from his princely home.

Those who were present at that wedding, can never forget the impression so solemnly made. Many from that hour forswore the social glass.

IMPORTANT COMMUNICATION

For the Times, and all Times, to be Considered.

The first stone in the structure of life insurance was laid by the hand of the Almighty when he planted in the human heart the generous impulses of love and affection, which prompt us to provide for our own; but the keystone is this law of average to secure which we bind ourselves together to bear each other's burdens, the stronger and richer, as the longer lives must be, helping the weaker and poorer brother that is cut down in early life, and by the universal law of compensation it gives us either the blessings of a long life or the pleasing assurance of leaving a competency to our loved ones, as the films of death are curtaining them from our sight forever.

Times like the present make most manifest the peculiar benefit of life insurance. Business is interrupted. Men are anxious for the future. Thousands have families growing up around them whose property depends upon the continuance of the father's life. Should he die, the income would cease; the children must be withdrawn from school; the mother and elder children must resort to every expedient to sustain the family; and, in many cases with the utmost exertion, this can not be done; the wife will return to her father for support, and the children, separated, must go, the older to seek work, and the younger be distributed among friends. Such reverses befall men the least expecting them. While business is active, and prosperity gives exhilaration and hope, men can hardly be made to feel that they are within a hand's breadth of utter reverse, and that their families may be scattered in a month, by the death of the father. But hard times lend men to think of these things.

Now if a man has insured a sum of one, five or ten thousand dollars upon his life, this anxiety is removed. While he lives, he can support his family. If he dies, ample provision is made for them.

It is every man's duty to provide for his family. That provision must include its future contingent condition. That provision, so far as it is material, men ordinarily seek to secure by their own accumulations and investments. But all these are uncertain. The man rich to-day, is, from causes beyond his reach, poor to-morrow. A war in China a revolution in Europe, a rebellion in America, overrule ten thousand fortunes in every commercial community. But, in life insurance there are no risks or contingencies. Other investments may fail. A house may burn down. Banks may break. Bonds and mortgages may be seized for debt, and all property may fall into the bottomless gulf of bankruptcy. But money secured to your family by life insurance will go to them without fail or interruption, provided you have selected a sound and honorable insurance company. Of two courses, one of which may leave your family destitute, and the other of which assures them a comfortable support at your decease, can there be a doubt which is to be chosen?"

The benefits of life insurance are not confined to a provision for families, but are as numerous as the various circumstances of individuals. It enables a person to make a provision for a wife, a parent, a child, a friend or domestic, depending on him, and he lives secure, that while his industry is providing for their support, his savings are effectually guarding them against want in the event of his death, thus doing his whole duty toward them instead of only one half of it.

It enables a person to raise money on loans where real security can not be offered, to provide for the prompt payment of his debts in the case of his death, and to secure the eventual payment of doubtful debts.

By it a charitable individual may donate a legacy to some beneficent institution; or a congregation a support to their minister's family in case of his death.

It provides means to reimburse the sum expended in the purchase of any life estate, on the death of the person during whose life it is held; to remove incumbrances, payable on events connected with the termination of life; and secures the return of money paid for education, for capital embarked in business, or other advances made for children or others, in the event of their premature death; and, generally, it affords a certain indemnity against any pecuniary loss whatsoever, to which one individual may become subject, by reason of the death of another.

It is a subject, then, which concerns the poor as well as the rich, the man living on his income, the mechanic the farmer, the professional man, the merchant—in short all classes of the community.

Surely, such an institution deserves the countenance, the consideration and support of all reflecting men, and is doubly recommended, when it is considered how very small a sacrifice of some personal gratification, will secure, by its means, the independence and happiness of a family.
